

Beaver

Shaquille Ducharme
Chemawawin Cree Nation

We are all interconnected. Just as humans have basic needs, beavers need fish and trees to survive. How we care for the environment is important to all life

In the space below, write a poem or story about the beaver or from the beaver's perspective.

Buffalo

Erin Anderson-Bruce
Poplar River First Nation

For as long as Indigenous people have lived on this land, the buffalo has remained alongside us, allowing us to live by giving it's fur for warmth, shelter, meat to eat, bones and sinew for tools. The buffalo is a reminder that all living things should be respected.

In the space below, write a poem or story about the buffalo or from the buffalo's perspective.

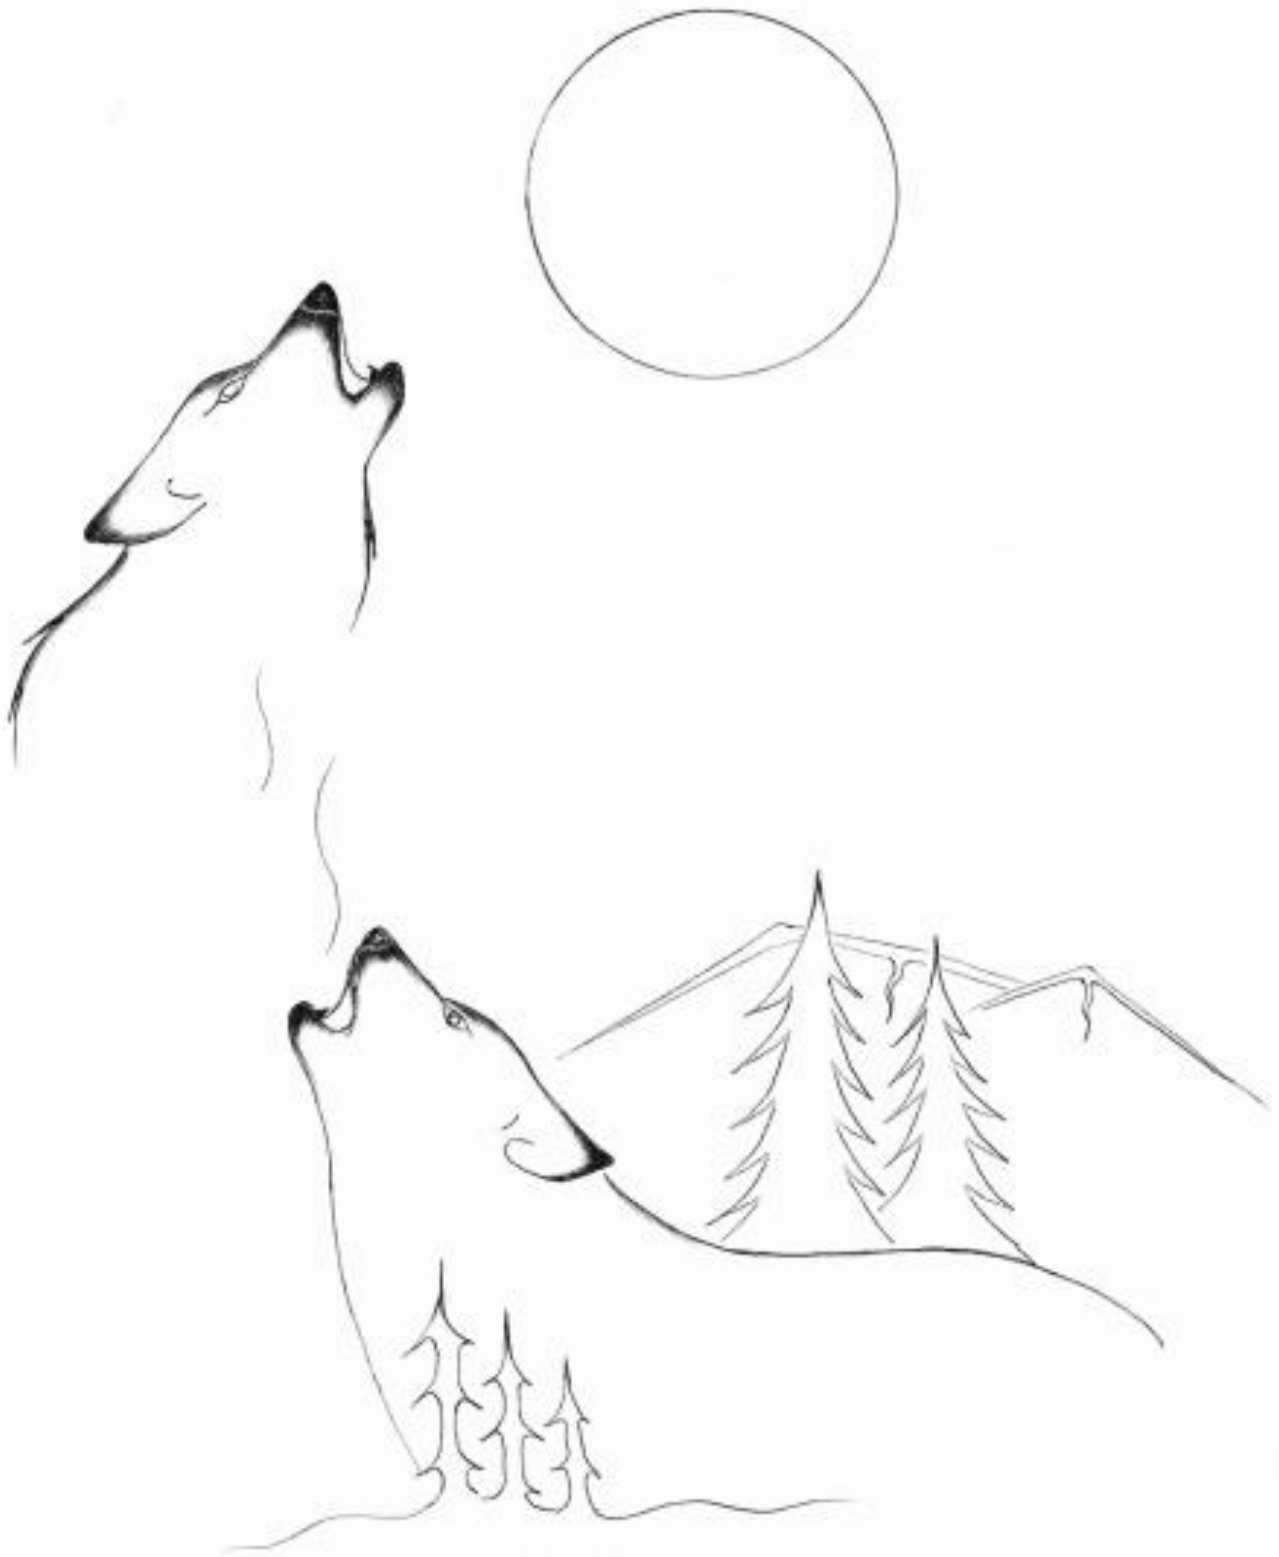

Cub Family

Emma Jane Bedard
Opaskwayak Cree Nation

*As a people, our physical, mental,
and spiritual health go hand in hand, along with the earth's creatures, to create one, big, in-tune community*

In the space below, write a poem or story about the bear cub or from the bear cub's perspective.

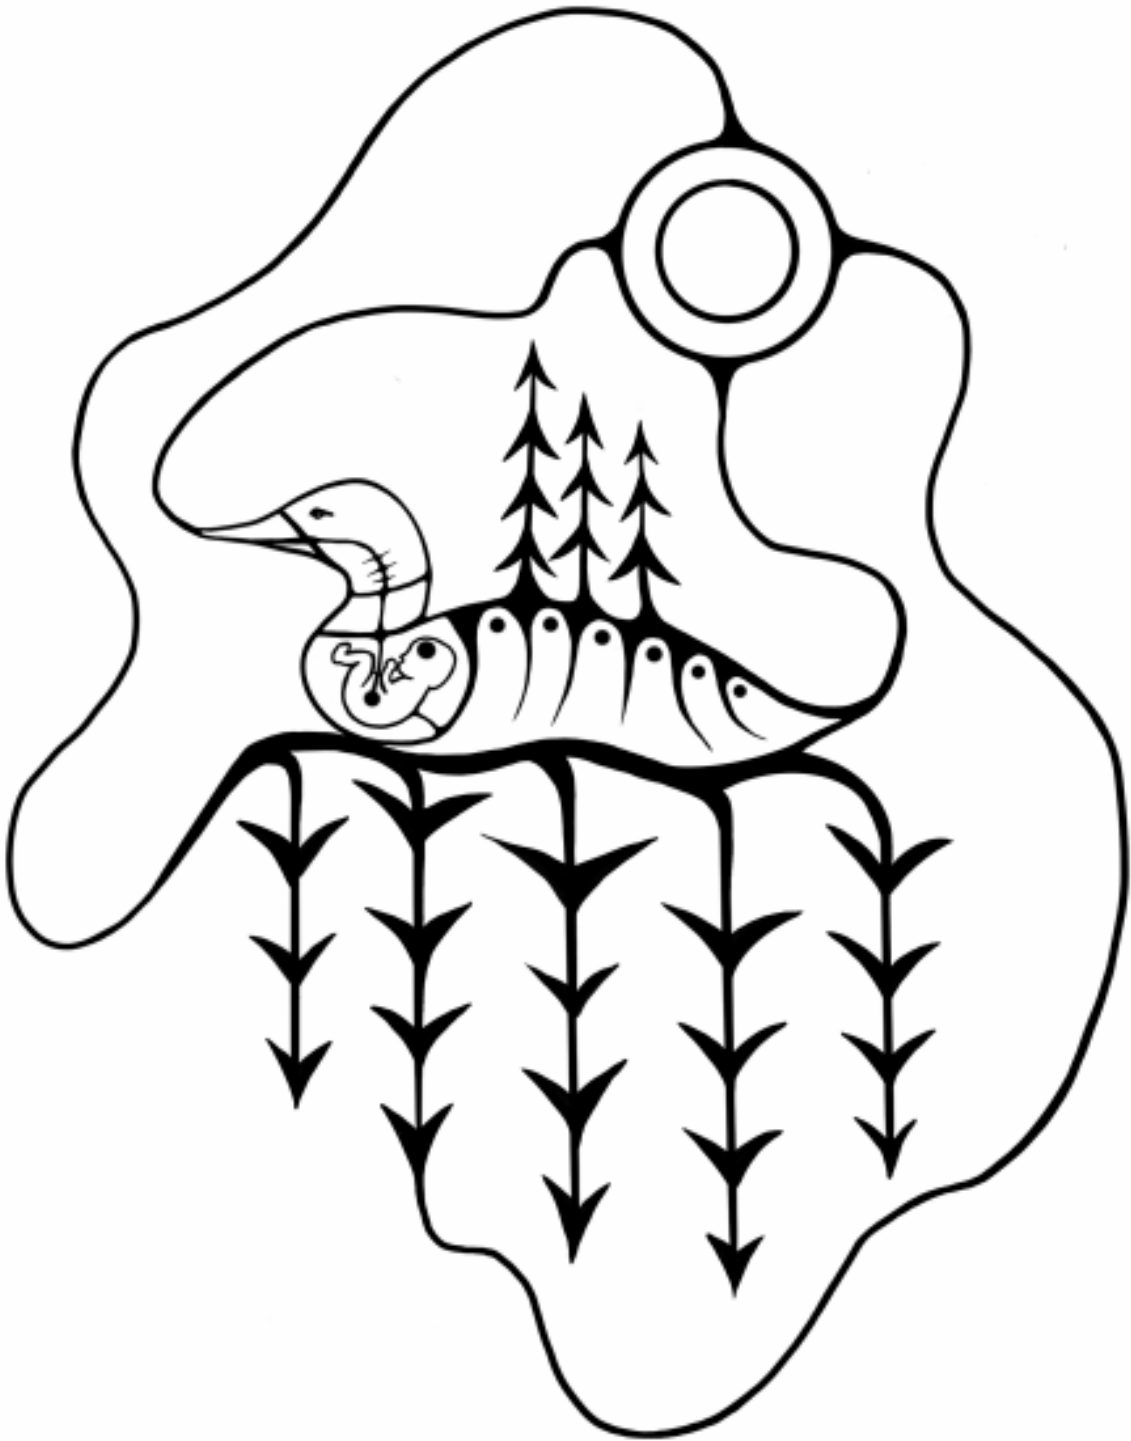

Wolves

Cliff Bear
Gordon's First Nation

The wolves show us that we can cry out for help. If we look, we will see that the things that will teach us are all around

In the space below, write a poem or story about the wolf or from the wolf's perspective.

Loon

Shaquille Ducharme
Chemawawin Cree Nation

We are one. We are able to live because we are connected to the sun and water, other humans, the trees, grass, plants, and animals. The loon is connected to the sun as it swims, and the child inside the loon signifies birth

In the space below, write a poem or story about the loon or from the loon's perspective.

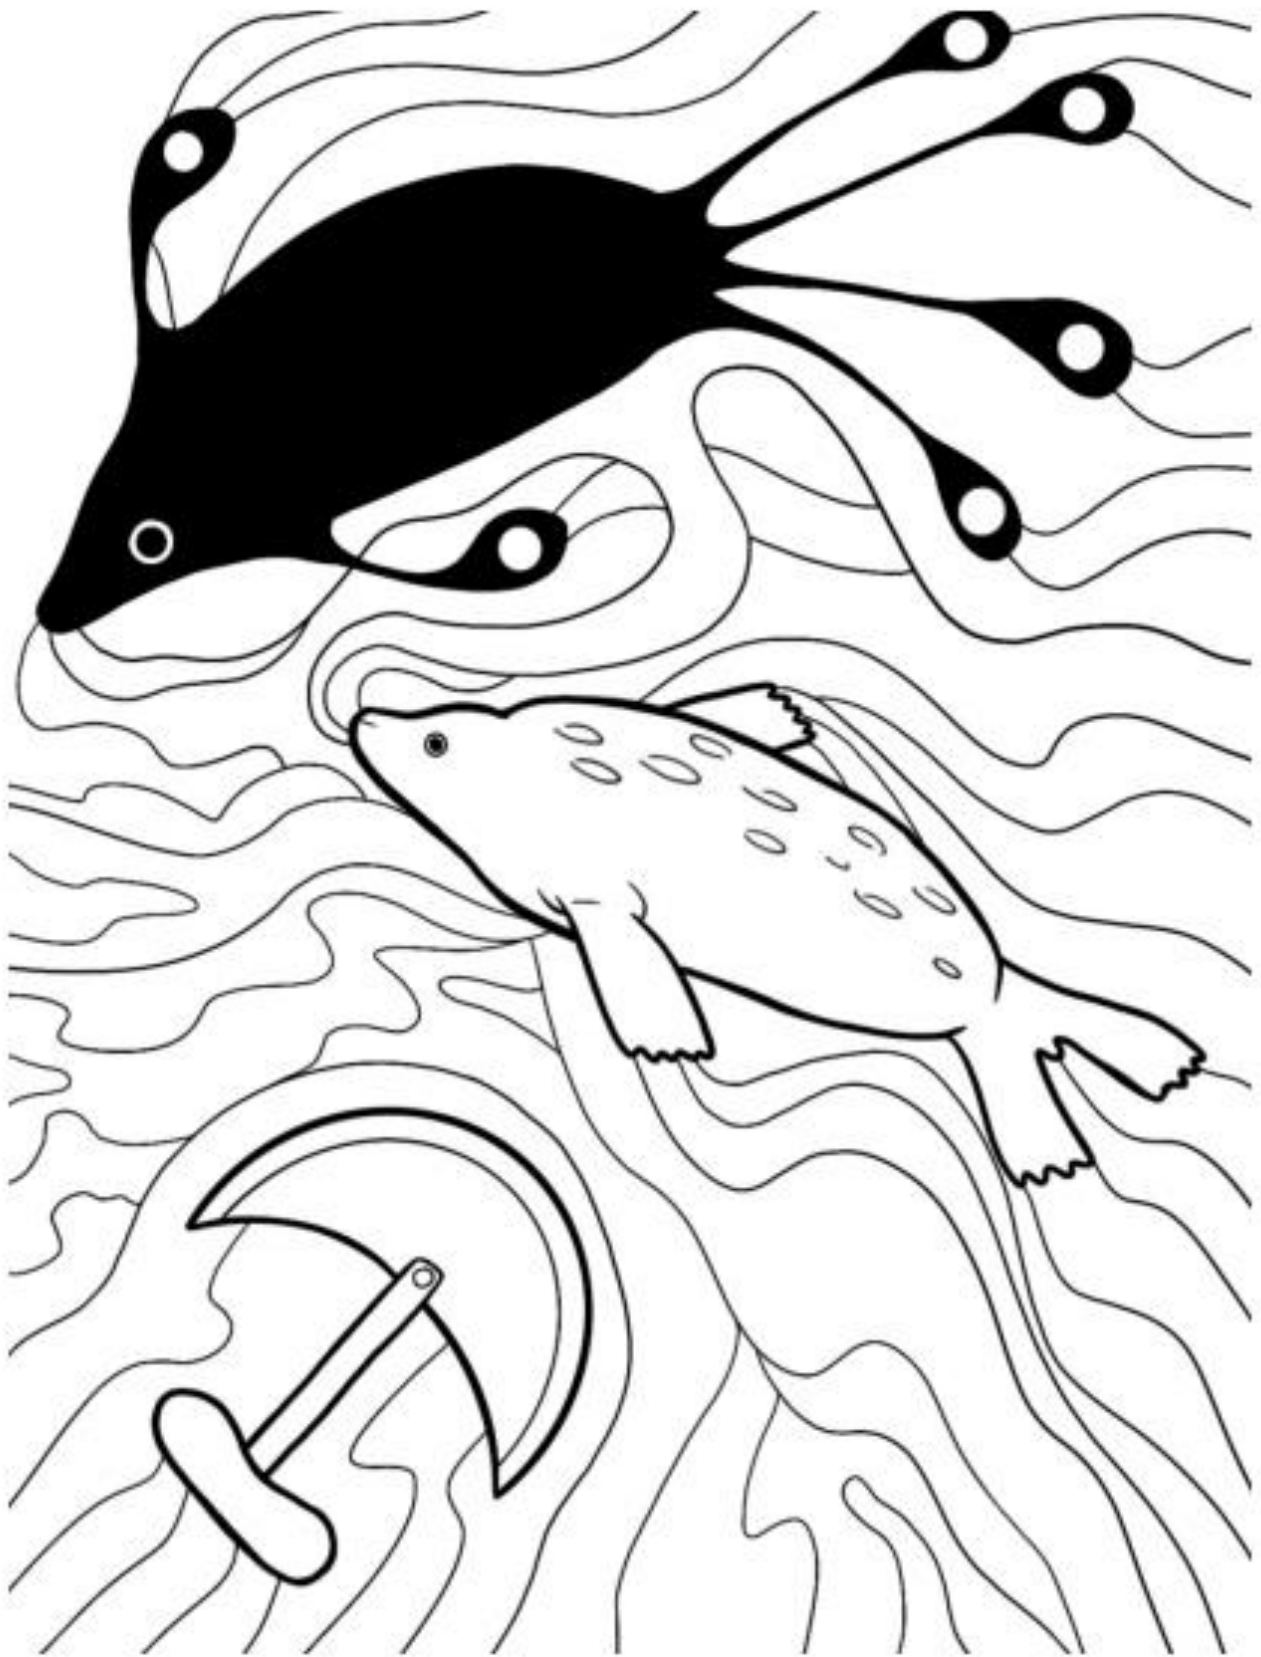

Bigfoot/Sabe

Jessie Jannuska
Canupawakpa Dakota Nation

The Seven Sacred Teachings include Sabe/Bigfoot, who stands for honesty. Be honest with yourself. Do not seek to deceive yourself or others.

In the space below, write a poem or story about Bigfoot or from the Bigfoot's perspective.

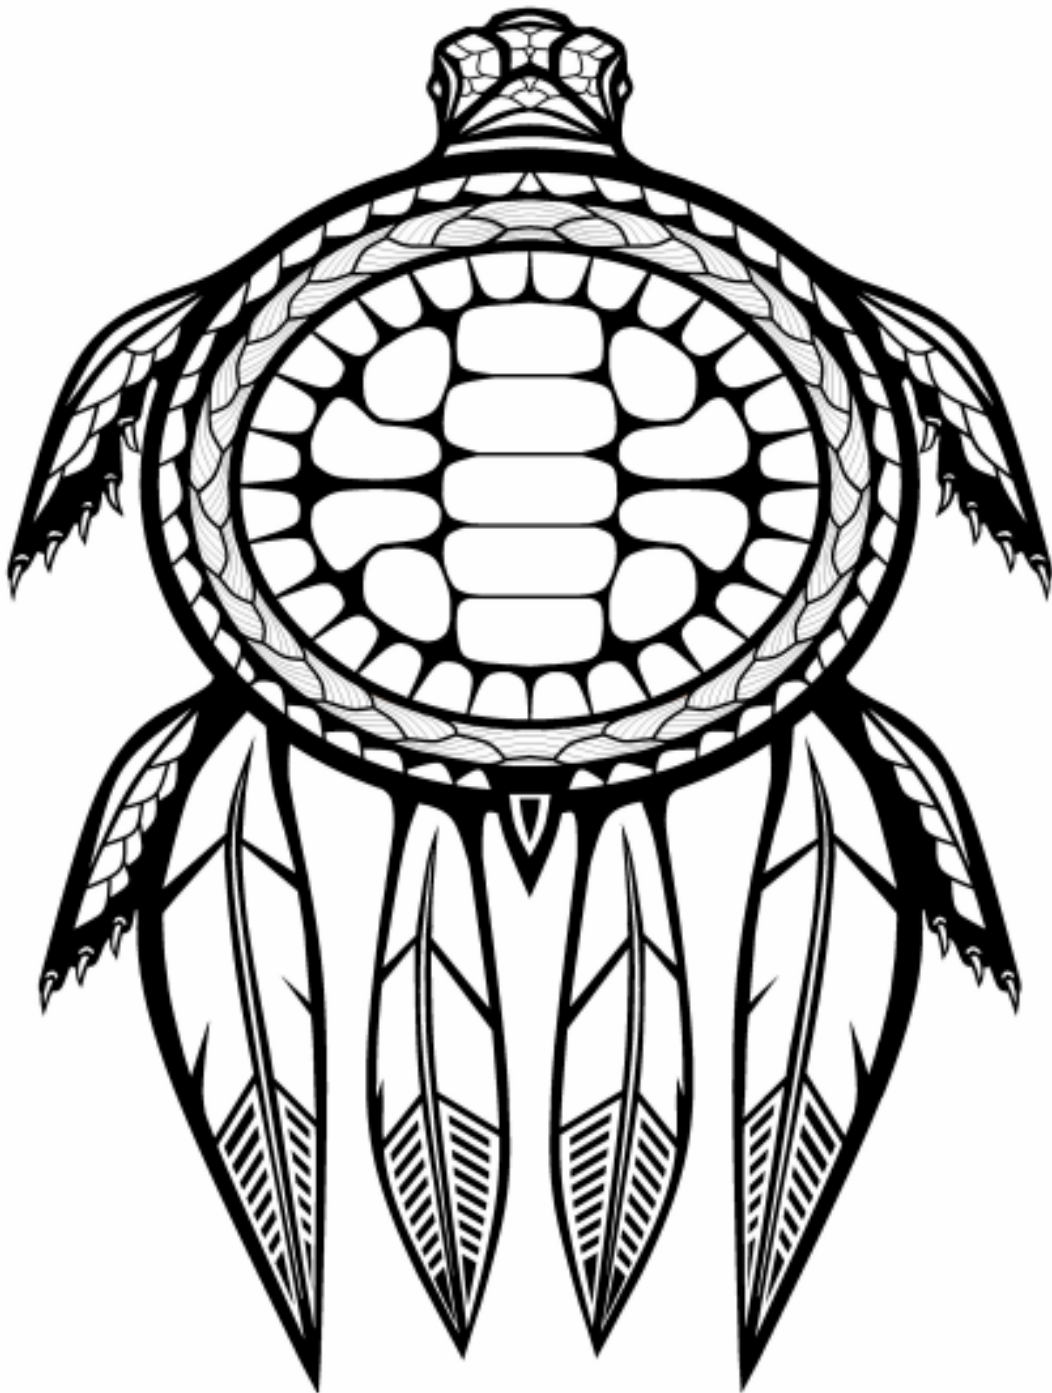

Arctic Natsik

Kailey Sheppard

Originally from Postville,
Labrador, now in Manitoba

This design depicts an ulu (Inuit knife), seal, and seal spirit. Seals are used in traditional Inuit medicines. All parts of the seal are used, honoured and respected.

In the space below, write a poem or story about the seal or from the seal's perspective.

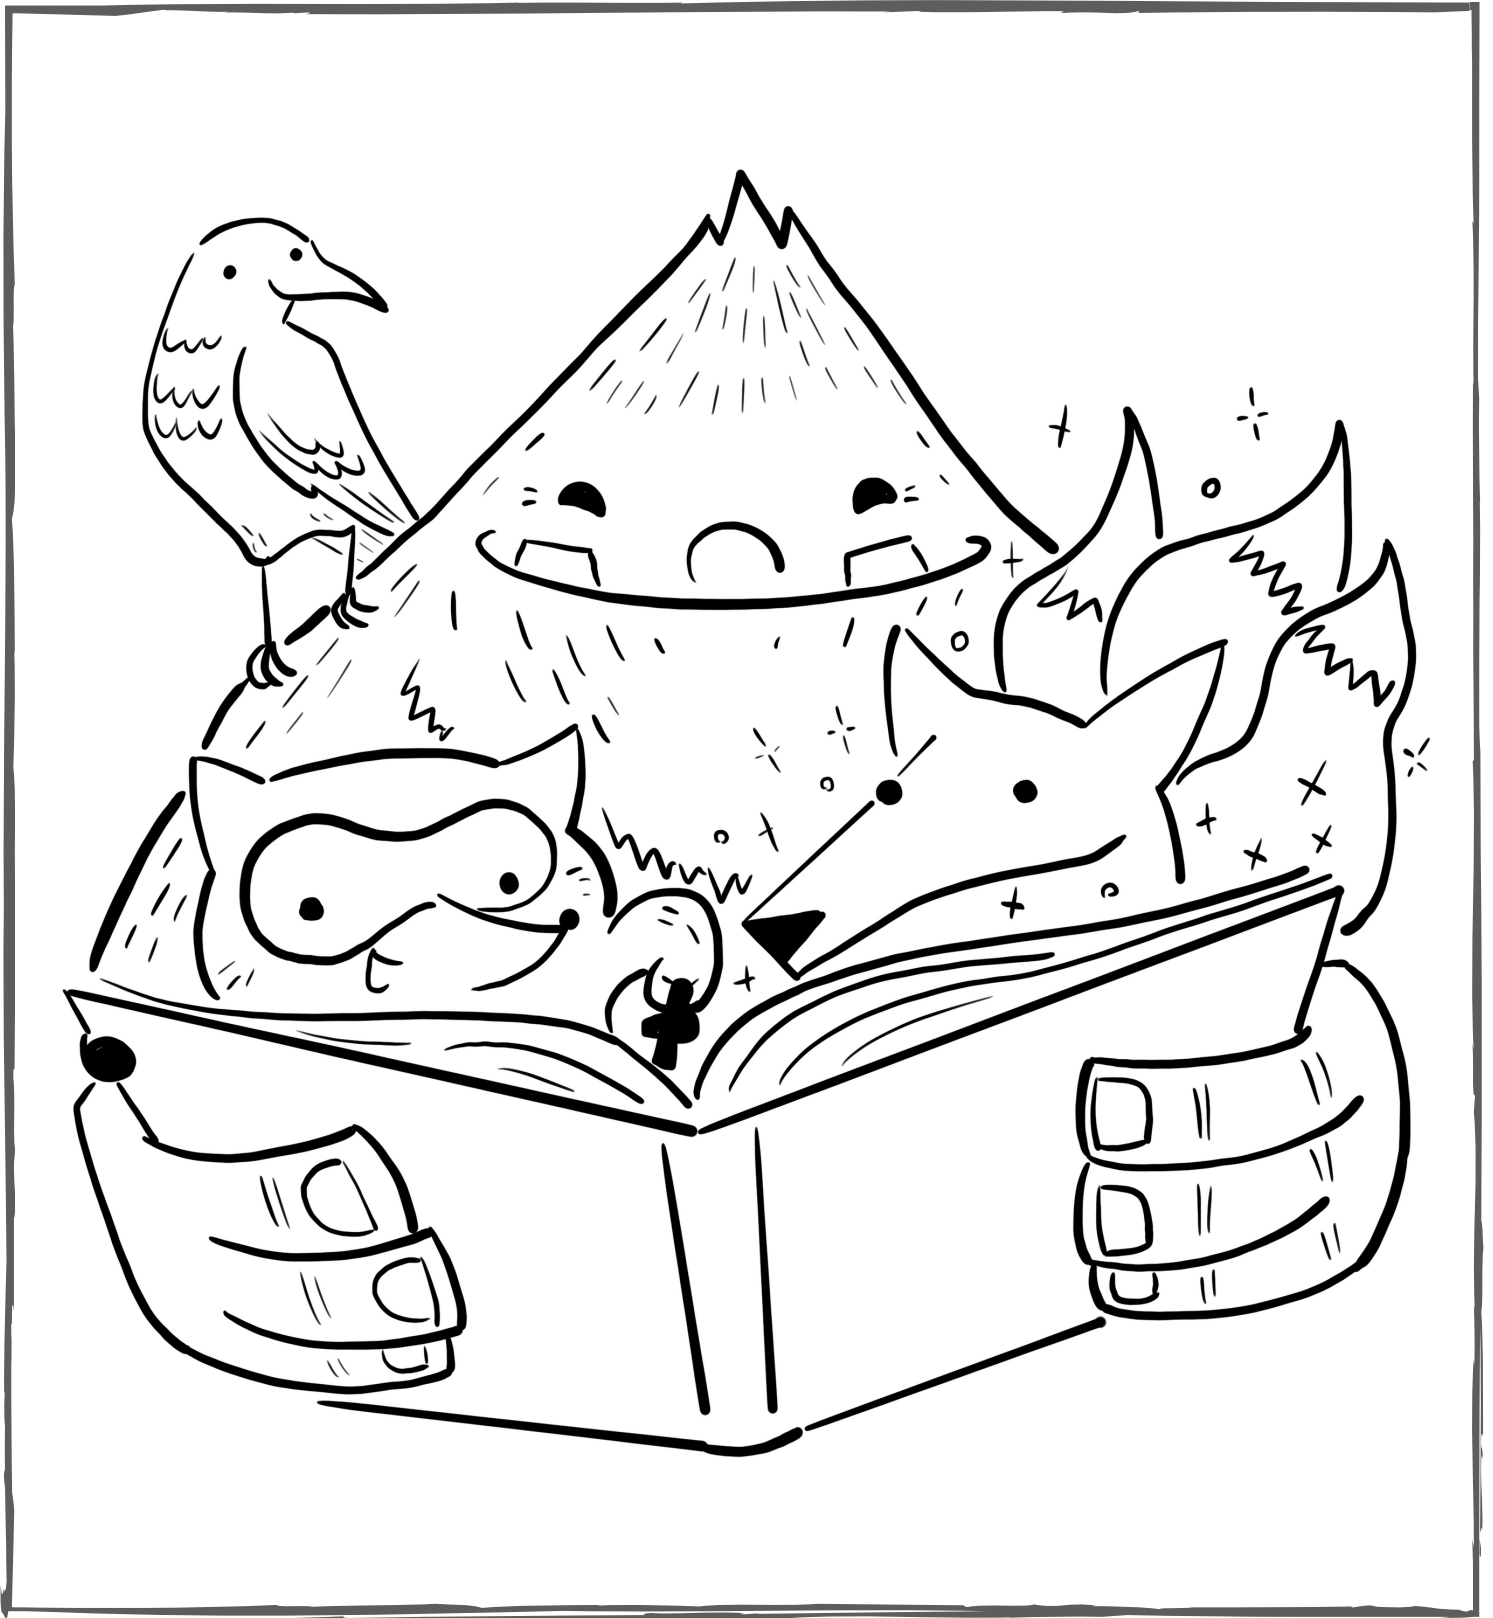

Turtle Clan

Rob Slater

Peguis First Nations

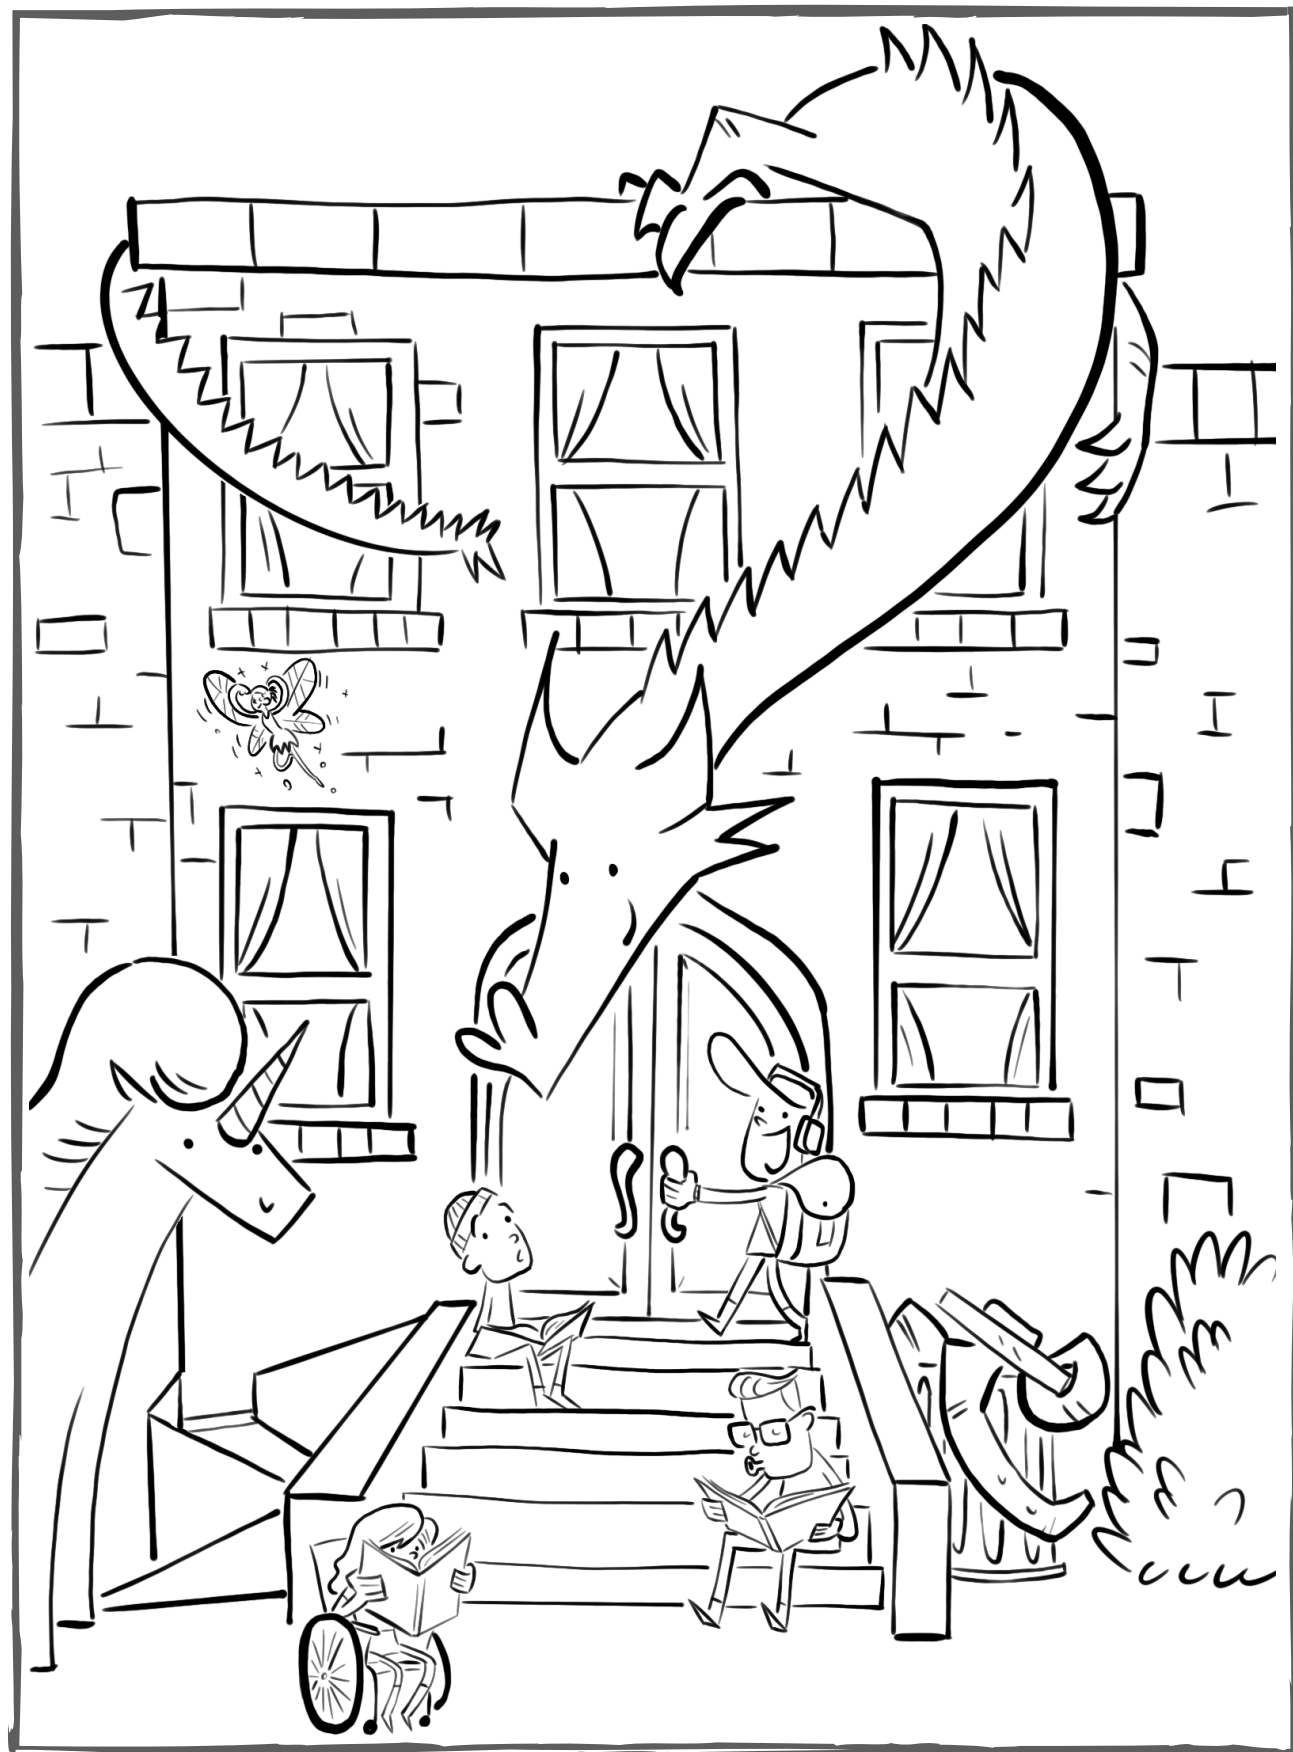

The Turtle is Truth in our culture. The Turtle's shell has 28 cycle markings and 13 moons, like a woman's cycles. There are many cycles in life, and the Gift of Life represents the Truth in all living things. These energies include all living things including humans

In the space below, write a poem or story about the turtle or from the turtle's perspective.
