One time there was a little girl, her name was Rayhana. Rayhana loved to go to the library. She would always select her favorite book dragon's library tales. It was her favorite book because he would always go on fun adventures in the most unexpected places. In one of his books, he would save a princess trapped in a tall brick tower. So, Rayhana decided that she would try to find it but she couldn't. Rayhana knew that she could ask the librarian for help to find her favorite book. The librarian told her it would be in the imaginary section. Rayhana found the book and went to sit in her favorite comfy spot. When she opened the front cover, she saw that the dragon was missing! She started to smell smoke and followed the trail of smoke to the mystery books section. Rayhana said, "I think the dragon is in here" and she picked up a book and opened it. Dragon flew out and asked Rayhana "Do you know where my library book is?" Rayhana said yes. Dragon told her he was lost because his book was not returned back to the imaginary section. Rayhana quickly picked up the dragon tales' book and opened it and dragon flew inside. Rayhana said bye to dragon. The next day Rayhana went to borrow the dragon tales' book and she found dragon right where he belonged!
